FACULTY BIOS

LIANA FIX is a Fellow for Europe at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). She is a historian and political scientist with expertise in German and European foreign and security policy, European security, transatlantic relations, Russia, Eastern Europe and the European China policy. She is an adjunct faculty member at Georgetown University in the Center for German and European Studies and the Center for Eurasian, Russian, and East European Studies. Before joining CFR, Fix was program director for international affairs at Körber-Stiftung in Berlin. She is the author of A New German Power? Germany's Role in European Russia Policy and a frequent commentator on trans-Atlantic affairs and European security in the national and international media.

RICHARD SAMUELS is Ford International Professor of Political Science at MIT. He has been Director of the Center for International Studies, Head of the MIT Political Science Department, Vice-Chair of the Committee on Japan of the National Research Council, and Chair of the Japan-US Friendship Commission. He has also been elected to the American Academy of Arts & Sciences and was awarded an Imperial decoration, the Order of the Rising Sun, Gold and Silver Star by the Emperor of Japan and the Japanese Prime Minister. Among Samuel's many publications are the books 3.11: Disaster and Change in Japan; and Securing Japan: Tokyo's Grand Strategy and the Future of East Asia, which was a finalist for the Lionel Gelber Prize for the best book in international affairs in 2007.

CLINT WORK is a Research Fellow and professor in the Center for Strategy and Military Power within the Institute for National Strategic Studies at the National Defense University. He previously served as Fellow and Director of Academic Affairs at the Korea Economic Institute of America (KEI), and Fellow at the Henry L. Stimson Center's 38 North Program. Work has conducted extensive applied research on U.S. national security policy in the Indo-Pacific, with emphasis on Northeast Asia and the Korean Peninsula. He has worked closely with officials throughout the Departments of Defense and State, U.S. Forces Korea (USFK), other U.S. national security-related departments and agencies, and with Congress, as well as South Korean and Japanese current and former officials, scholars and analysts.
